Behind the Scenes in a Circus. By Winifred Sackville Stoner jr.

James Whitcomb Riley must have on a great lover of "The Circus" he was a small boy as he has put the real circus feeling into his thyme "Oh the Circus Day Parade." I can feel the joy of a grand entrance parade thrilling through my wonderful poem.

Yesterday I had the great privilege and joy of not only seeing a circus, but in going behind the ecenes and seeing the life bhind the joyful, exciting and amusing acts which are shown to delight the audience. I invited some of my freinds to Mother, Miss Eleanor McCiure and Miss Ethyi Mockler were invited to ride around the ring, but they said, "No, thank you," sithough I know that they were yearning to ride with us kids. But I haven't told you about my steed, because I must make a confession about my acting somewhat seifish. Mr. Adler, not knowing my cowboy tendencies, selected Molly for my mount and planned to give Tommy, Mrs. Adler's favorite horse, to Joe Apple. When I saw Tommy I could not resist the temptation to Jump on his back, and away I galloped, imagining that I was a real cowboy of the West. Mr. Adler called after me and urged me to "hold him in," but the sensation was delightful and I threw discretion to the winds. Ergo, I was punished by the consequence of my act as mother said that I could not ride around a third time because I had gone the ring in cowboy style. I langed to have a race with Joe, Nancy and Sonny, as I knew that Tommy could beat Molly and the ponies, but I had to obey and dismount, as I knew that if I took the longed-for third ride I could not ride another horse for many long weeks in the future. not ride another horse for many long sateen, as I formerly thought. We saw many people busy sewing sequins on these robes. We visited the stables and saw all of the fine horses and ponies; we played with the circus dogs; had a good peep at a handsome mother tigress with her babies, and, through the generosity of our host, we fed all of the elephants on circus peanuts. But the best part of all was when the ringmaster, Mr. Adler, allowed us to go into the ring and ride of the Vacation Savings Computer of the Work of the Vacation Savings Computer of an ordeal, I daresay, for singers to air their voices at noon, "a crime to ask them," a young woman remarked to me, as she passed down the aisie; but both Miss Hempel and Mr. Amato stood the test well. Miss Hempel's numbers included an aria from Vernumbers included an aria from Verdi's "Ernani," songs by Brahms and acts from three plays, with singing cf the Vacation Savings Committee, and the proceeds are for the benefit of the fund which helps working girts to get vacations. Miss Anne Morgan has been the leading spirit of the preparations. Miss Rachel Crothers, who is to be ringmaster, also has done much work. So has Miss Ruth Dimmick. Riobert Whittier is the stage director. The charm of the show is that nearly every actor is one of the Vacation Fund girls.
